

Ms. Arisa Osawa has worked an extensive field including climate change, territorial/ regional planning and transportation at the Government of Japan. Since July 2020, she has served as the director for National Spatial Planning and Coordination and is responsible of organizing the Spatial Planning Platform. She earned master's degree in regional and urban planning and environment development in the United Kingdom.